MONDAY MORNING APRIL 4 1864

Gone to its Grave

The New York Herald says it has been acquainted with the organization, known as the Democratic party for forty years, and it knows "it to be dead and buried, not a vestige of it is left"

It further remarks that there are men in different parts of the country, acting as administrators—a set of contract brokers who buy and sell votes, and call themselves the Democratic party, when such a thing is really "done gone" forever We have some representatives of the dead carcass out here They are as solemn as owls, when they talk about abolition tyranny, but their fun is immense when they begin to imagine that there is a chance to re-clothe the old party ghost with the habiliments of life. They cover the defunct, decaying corpse with loud sounding resolutions, and seem to fancy that the garments in which they dress it, give it vitality Their work is like that of children, dressing pet dolls Their plaything may amuse them but it never will do them any other good Its life is gone, and no person can restore it. It died of its atrocious villainy, and humanity rejoices that its power for mischief is over Its friends and mourners are those who lived upon it and even they will turn from its coffin in disgust as soon as they see any chance to make something by kicking it into the grave Alas for Democracy! It disgraced its supporters, killed itself and ought to ruin the country, which so long tolerated and sustained it Let it die and be forgotten!

THE IDAHO GOLD SENSATION—THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.—The Peoria (Illinois) Mail of Feb 17th, says

Mr Chase, who left Iowa some two years since, on a tour to the land of gold has just returned. From E Clarkson, mail agent on the Bureau Valley Railroad who conversed with him, we gather a few facts that may be interesting and valuable to our readers

Mr Chase, in company with his brother, first went to California and wrought in the mines in that country Leaving there he went to Idaho, where he arrived in October last and stayed there about a month, leaving some time in November He says the mines in California are much richer than those of Idaho—that in the latter country they occupy a very limited space, and are poor at that It was estimated that 30 000 men in Idaho were out of employment, and everything exorbitantly high The climate is cold and they have ice there in August. It is nothing uncommon to have four feet of snow which lasts all through the winter The best route to Idaho, Mr Chase thinks, is by the way of Salt Lake City, then across the country on mules By this means a party could get in advance of the large emigration already on the way, which would be a very desirable thing for those who valued the good condition of their animals The cry of rich mines in Idaho is all for speculation The puffs and notices in the newspapers are paid for by speculators There are no rich mines there as represented. No man can make his living by mining in Idaho.

The above, which is traveling through all the newspapers in the East, is made an argument against the wealth of Idaho. Mr Chase was there a whole month, and thinks there are no rich mines and that a man could not make a living there by mining! He must be one of those wild goose chase family, and deserves very little credit indeed he gets none at all for the same papers that publish his yarn, are full of reports of the rush to Idaho

CAMERON AND THE VICE PRESIDENCY—WASHINGTON Feb 24th —Great efforts are being made by the friends of ex Secretary Cameron to have him placed on the ticket with Lincoln This, as was to have been expected, causes great annoyance to the friends of Andrew Johnson, who claim the Vice Presidency for him as an acknowledgement of his patriotism and his great sacrifice in behalf of the Union Both of the gentleman named are now here, and are understood to have placed themselves in the hands of their respective friends.

We certainly hope there is no danger of the nomination of Cameron, but he is so adroit and so utterly unscrupulous, that there is much reason to fear lest by some trade or the free use of his enormous wealth, he may seduce and manage some portion of the members of the National Convention The country does not generally know how near he came to being nominated in place of Mr Lincoln four years ago He was defeated only by the most earnest efforts of Greeley and Judge Read, of Pennsylvania, and others who thoroughly knew his political history, and that the guiding principle of his career has been and is that "every man has his price" He sometimes gets sold himself, as was the case last year, when he seemed to think he had succeeded in buying his way to the Senate, but generally he accomplishes his purposes. We should deeply regret his being put upon the Union ticket—it would be a terrible burden, and though it probably could not defeat Mr Lincoln, it would cause a critical risk which ought to be avoided.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY —The Democrats at the Convention in Oregon City, on Saturday last, set up the following candidates for office J. Myers, for Senator, H Straight, C F Beattie and Wm McCown for Representatives, G. Trullinger for Sheriff John Fleming for Treasurer and Hugh Courtier and Wm Evans for County Commissioners. Of course nobody expects that any part of this ticket can be elected, but as our Democratic neighbors are anxious to go through the motions of voting, the selection of the above candidates is quite as creditable to the party as any which they could have made

Letter from Auburn

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

AUBURN, March 20, 1864

EDS OREGONIAN

Already the travel towards the mines throngs the roads, and thousands are pouring into the upper country to try their fortunes during the coming summer, many of whom will return wiser if not richer men But even let the mines of Idaho be as rich and extensive as they are reported and believed to be they cannot even then afford good pay for the tens of thousands rushing thither Of course my letter will not stop any of them, and it is not my interest as a permanent resident of the upper country to have the travel hither stop, and I merely put in a word, to prove myself a prophet in good time Auburn is receiving a fair share of laborers ready to develop her mines and no doubt labor will be abundant enough to use all the water that can be furnished here, and one thing is certain, there will be a more abundant supply of water here than anywhere else as thanks to Portland capital we have the best and most valuable ditch interest in the upper country and I think this season will repay handsomely for the money invested, but Auburn from henceforth will rank at best only as a second class mining town, with diggings that will pay moderate wages for years and able to support perhaps three hundred miners and a few stores Burnt River is promising something extensive in the way of mines and a company is engaged in bringing water from the main river upon Clark's Creek and expect to develop mines for twenty miles along their ditch before reaching that creek, there is no doubt, a much more extensive and valuable mining region there than about Auburn, as time will show

At Mormon Basin, beyond there, they think they have found silver, but there is no certainty of it, and the stories of rich silver leads at Canyon City, are purely a hoax, so at least the expressman tells me The reflection often recurs to me Lord how the world is given to lying!" especially about mining discoveries

Well, the ferries on Snake river are doing a good business again the toll roads and bridges are pricking up their ears —speaking in a Pickwickian sense of course Some twenty roads and bridges have incorporated under the general incorporation act of this State, all within the limits of Baker county

I am able at last to give you some reliable statistics of this county as the enrollment and assessment for 1863 are finally completed The taxable property of the county foots up to pretty near $600,000, and the number of persons between the ages of twenty and forty five, according to the returns of the enrolling officer, reach near 900, besides which, many more not enrolled and there are many over forty five years of age I would place the actual number of voters in the county at one thousand at least as hundreds who will be voters in June, have been wintering below, and were not enrolled here

The greater part of the permanent wealth and population of Baker county is found in Grand Ronde Valley, which will doubtless apply for an independent organization next fall, and will need it too, as their principal point is sixty miles from Auburn, and Baker county extends still one hundred and sixty miles south if not more, so that should new discoveries come to light a little farther west in the Owyhee region, there may be a new county to cut off at either end, north and south, and still have an important mining region to found the future greatness of Baker County upon.

One thing may now be depended on as to Boise mines and this country, that is a small supply of water for the present season. All know that the supply was short last year, and the present winter there has been much less snow fallen than last, and we are obliged to expect short rations of water, through this whole upper country

Politics and patriotism are raging now quite finely among us The Union men have organized for the spring campaign, met in Convention nominated candidates, and do not intend to lose anything for want of diligence and energy The ladies of Auburn have made a beautiful flag 18x26 feet for the Union party, which was presented and received with suitable honors, and which floats beautifully

The Democrats are organizing, and will lose nothing by delay, as they can thereby avail themselves of any act committed by their opponents, and take advantage of any weak points, and no doubt they will carefully match their strongest men against the Union party nominees The contest will be close, as the Democracy are suddenly becoming intensely loyal, and they deter many from joining the Union movement by assurances that their convention will resolve for war and unconditional Union, and their candidates shall be war Democrats With this programme carried out they will make a strong run, as among the settlers are many of Price's old soldiery, who started in a hurry from Pea Ridge and never stopped the "double quick" until they reached Powder River and Grand Ronde Valley, where they still have and cheerish their old democratic predelictions

A word about the mail We have seen several patriotic persons really ruined by attempting to supply the people here with mail matter, and at present we cheerfully pay the carrier twenty five cents for each letter which is collected by the postmaster upon delivery, and perhaps the present 'incumbent' may not be much victimized

Now the Indians The indefatigable Snakes are living in clover, having all the fun they want, getting rich in horses and plunder and occasionally getting a scalp to dance around next winter I have seen this operation, in my life time, and know how much they will enjoy it when the snow comes again The last raid equal to Averill's best, was made on Burnt river, and they drove off lots of horses not more than thirty miles from Auburn, and on Upper Burnt river, twenty five miles from here, they committed a wholesale robbery only a few days since Floyd couldn't have beaten it in his palmiest days I suppose, of course, they can't be blamed for only following their natural instinct, and it would be a pity to stop them from enjoying themselves

About Jordan Creek, Owyhee, I can only say that I expect to be a resident there inside of thirty days and you can have a regular correspondent there if you say the word, who will endeavor in the future as he has in the past, to give you such items as he can vouch for, and not steamboat you with tales of fiction, given as truth I have great faith in Owyhee and shall certainly put that faith to my sleeve and go there.

A HUMBUG EXPLODED —When Cotton was King, one of his high priests here was Matthew F Maury, who was regarded as the scientific oracle par excellence, of the Republic, although Professors Henry and Bache used occasionally to make a demonstration against him Now that he has exiled himself, however, and it has been ascertained how diligently he labored to pull down the government which enabled him to attain a world-wide fame, the savans do not hesitate to denounce him. The National Academy of Science have declared that Maury's "Wind and Current Charts" embrace much that is unsound in philosophy, and little that is practically useful. So they are to be discontinued, and with them will disappear the last official token of Maury, who used to be so petted and glorified. —Washington Cor Boston Journal

IMMENSE IMMIGRATION —The immigration hitherward the coming season will be large beyond precedent. All throughout the Mississippi States, an Idaho, or a Washoe or California fever possesses thousands The St. Joseph Herald of Dec 31st, says

Associations are forming in Kansas for mutual protection to those intending to visit the auriferous regions of Idaho in the Spring Similar accounts are received from all along the border, of preparation making to emigrate to the new El Dorado. The old method of acquiring wealth is about to be superseded a modest greenback is looked upon with contempt, every man is going directly to the heap, and is only concerned with how much he shall secure transportation home of his mammoth exhumations in the mountains

"ONLY A FARMER"—A correspondent of a Portland paper describes a debate in the Maine Legislature on the question of granting a township of land to the Maine Wesleyan Seminary at Kent's Hill, in course of which a clergyman made a speech and illustrated the benefits of the institution by quoting the history of a young man who, through them became a preacher, whereas, without the advantages of the Seminary he would have remained only a farmer. "Only a farmer" said Mr Small of Lyndon, another member of the House "I am a farmer, and not ashamed to be one, and I am now asked to vote the means of elevating men so as to look down and sneer at me! The bill did not pass.

THE REGULAR TICKET —From some intimations we have heard, and from what appears in our advertising columns we presume that active efforts will be made to defeat the regular nominations at the election to-day We sincerely regret this disposition as we fear its effect may be mischievous in several respects The nominations made at the Court-House eminently deserve support They were made fairly, and we cannot expect to find better men as a whole, than are named on the ticket. We have heard no suggestion of unfairness in regard to the meetings on Friday evening The tickets there nominated are fully as regular and binding as that made at the Court House, so far as we can understand, and yet we are informed that some of those who are exceedingly anxious to secure the success of one set of regular nominations, are with equal industry endeavoring to defeat the other Of course a nomination binds no one, who does not voluntarily agree that he will support it, but it certainly seems to be very inconsistent for those who claim that the general nomination is binding to be opposing that for the Council the same may be said of the opponents of the first, who insist on supporting the last Now, the easy and safe way for all, whose object is to have a good city government,—is to support the regular tickets, especially when they contain the names of good men, faithful and competent, and fairly nominated Any other course will lead to bargains and arrangements, which should be avoided, and may cause the election of those, whose elevation to office is not really desired by the people, and would not promote the general welfare

ARRIVAL FROM VICTORIA —The schooner Jenny Jones, which left Victoria on Sunday the 27th, arrived in tow of the John H Couch yesterday morning, about one o'clock She was ten days off the Columbia river bar, and crossed on Friday evening Captain Gardner came with the vessel from Victoria, as pilot. THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN —We are gratified to know that our efforts to publish a full and reliable paper, are appreciated by our subscribers A correspondent from Oakland who furnishes us with a list of new names, very truly says How easy it would be to increase the circulation of the OREGONIAN to ten or even fifteen thousand copies, if every Union reader would take the trouble to secure a few names Our list is truly increasing but the more the better send along the clubs

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION —The unterrified of Multnomah county met in Convention, at the Court House on Saturday and after passing a couple of resolutions, stating that they were mainly "in favor of the Constitution of the United States as it is" and the Union as it was," elected the following delegates to attend a State Convention A E Wait Jas F Bybee, J B Stevens Wm Beck, Wm McMillen A County Committee was appointed, as follows Thos J Holmes, J F Bybee, Wm Cree J B Stevens and H F Bock

FROM VICTORIA —We understand that there are several hundred passengers at Victoria, awaiting passage to this port, en route for the Boise mines As no steamer touches here on her southward trip at present it is probable they will find their way overland The steamer Rescue, Capt Thayer, arrived on Saturday evening, bringing 40 passengers from Victoria, that had arrived on the steamer Eliza Anderson at Olympia, on Friday noon, making the entire trip in two days and a half

ACCIDENT —While Mr Rider, of the Montor Hotel, was out with his family in a carriage yesterday, he met with quite an accident on the Macadamized Road, in the vicinity of the State Penitentiary One of the horses became entangled in the harness and the carriage was backed off the embankment with its occupants, three grown persons and two children, but fortunately no one was injured, and the carriage was but slightly broken

THE OREGON MINT STILL ALIVE —By a private dispatch received Saturday evening, dated at Washington last Friday, we learn that on that day Mr Nesmith made an excellent speech in the Senate on the Mint question We hope and believe he will succeed in saving this measure It is of vital consequence and we do not see why it should meet with any opposition

DEPARTURE OF THE PACIFIC —The steamer Pacific, A M Burns Commander, left this port on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, for San Francisco direct Treasure was not large amounting in the aggregate to about $58,000, by seven principal shippers The cargo consisted of 4,000 boxes of apples

THE REGULAR TICKET.—From some intimations we have heard, and from what appears in our advertising columns, we presume that active efforts will be made to defeat the regular nominations at the election to-day. We sincerely regret this disposition, as we fear its effect may be mischievous in several respects. The nominations made at the Court-House eminently deserve support. Of course a nomination binds no one, who does not voluntarily agree that he will support it, but it certainly seems to be very inconsistent for those who claim that the general nomination is binding, to be opposing that for the Council: the same may be said of the opponents of the first, who insist on supporting the last. She was ten days off the Columbia river bar, and crossed on Friday evening. Captain Gardner came with the vessel from Victoria, as pilot. Fourteen passengers were on board, and 160 tons of freight, consisting of hardware, iron, cutlery, and general merchandise. The following are consignees per Jenny Jones:

[illegible] Ziers, 1,570 packages; G. W Vaughn, 1,272; [illegible] & McCraken, 112; Ladd, Reed & Co 70; Order [illegible]; D Fargally, 2; F Harbaugh, 18; [illegible] & Co, 80; John Douglas, 46.—Total—3,124.

The revenue accruing from the above cargo, as we are informed by Mr. Parker, Deputy Collector, amounts to about $3,600. A year ago the Sierra Nevada brought a cargo from Victoria, the revenue of which was $3,800, so taking the revenue view of trade with Victoria, it will be an advantage to us. Mr. A. B. Richardson is agent for the Jenny Jones, and she is advertised to leave on Saturday.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.—We are gratified to know that our efforts to publish a full and reliable paper, are appreciated by our subscribers. A correspondent from Oakland, who furnishes us with a list of new names, very truly says: "How easy it would be to increase the circulation of the OREGONIAN to ten or even fifteen thousand copies, if every Union reader would take the trouble to secure a few names." Our list is rapidly increasing but the more the better: send along the clubs.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The unterrified of Multnomah county met in Convention, at the Court House on Saturday, and after passing a couple of resolutions, stating that they were only "in favor of the Constitution of the United States as it is," "and the Union as it was," elected the following delegates to attend the State Convention: A. E. Wait, Jas. J. Bybee, J. B. Stevens, Wm. Beck, Wm. McMillen. A County Committee was appointed, as follows: Thos. J. Holmes, J. F. Bybee, Wm. Cree, J. B. Stevens and H. E. Block.

FROM VICTORIA.—We understand that there are several hundred passengers at Victoria, awaiting passage to this port, en route for the Boise mines. As no steamer touches here on her southward trip at present, it is probable they will find their way overland. The steamer Emma, Capt. Thayer, arrived on Saturday evening, bringing 40 passengers from Victoria, that had arrived on the steamer Eliza Anderson at Olympia, on Friday noon, making the entire trip in two days and a half.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. Rider, of the Monitor Hotel, was out with his family in a carriage yesterday, he met with quite an accident on the Macadamized Road, in the vicinity of the State Penitentiary. One of the horses became entangled in the harness, and the carriage was backed off the embankment with its occupants, three grown persons and two children, but fortunately no one was injured, and the carriage was but slightly broken.

We hope and believe he will succeed in saving this measure. It is of vital consequence, and we do not see why it should meet with any opposition.

DEPARTURE OF THE PACIFIC.—The steamer Pacific, A. M. Burns Commander, left this port on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock for San Francisco direct. Treasure was not large, amounting in the aggregate to about $58,000, by seven principal shippers. The cargo consisted of 4,000 boxes of apples.

SCHOOL MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the legal voters of the first School District of the city of Portland, at the School House, this evening, to elect District officers for the ensuing year.

SALE OF A SLOOP.—The sloop Christina has been sold to Government by Capt. Dodge, and will be used as a tender to the garrison of the new fort at the mouth of the Columbia river, between the fort and Astoria.

THE JENNY JONES.—This vessel which is at present sailing as a clipper schooner, was put up at Port Townsend, on Puget Sound, and intended originally for a propeller. She was constructed for [illegible] and will receive her machinery when she returns to Victoria and then will take her place regularly on the line between Victoria and Portland. After she was built and sent to Victoria [illegible] suspicion was raised against her owners that it was thought she was designed for privateering, and the Saginaw was sent to look into the matter, upon which it was reported that [illegible] "Johnny Jones" or Jenny Lind, nor one of the other kind [illegible]. On the trip to this port, she has proved herself to be fully able to stand the sea, having encountered heavy storms during the entire passage and things heavily rolled, she made headway all the time. We trust Capt. Jones will meet with sufficient encouragement in this enterprise to keep his craft busy both ways, and although small, let us hope the Jenny is but the precursor of a large fleet to be established on this line.

THEATRICAL.—The Star Company of Mr. G. B. Waldron, with Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne and Miss Frances R. Gass as leading players, commence a new engagement at Willamette Theatre this evening. This Company with the exception of Miss Gass, have been with us so long that they seem like our own citizens, and we believe they have never failed to give satisfaction to their audiences for over a year. The plays for this evening, "Griselda" and the "Lion Boy," are both good, and we bespeak for the Manager a full house. Mr. W. and his Company, go to the Dalles by the morning's boat.

LIGHT SCENES, BY ASMONEUS.—Several clippings, taken from the different illustrated papers, appeared on a large sheet, posted up on Stark street yesterday, near the Express office. Each picture contained a written description conveying the idea it was intended to represent, much on the principle that actuated the boy who drew a picture of a table, and wrote under it "this is a table," that people might understand. Whether this Asmoneus is one of the family that reigned over the Jews, or not, is unknown, at all events his illustrations have attracted crowds.

HEBREW BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.—At a regular meeting of the Hebrew Benevolent Association, held yesterday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, S. Goldsmith; Vice President, H. N. Walter; Recording Secretary M. Ehrenreich; Financial Secretary, L. H. Lewis; Treasurer, L. Bettman; Trustees, L. White, D Freidenreich, A. P. Elfelt, M. Stock, K. Has.

SALE OF OPIUM.—The ten cases of opium seized by the United States officers for violation of the revenue laws, will be sold to-day at the Auction Rooms of A. B. Richardson, upon a writ issued out of the United States District Court. No fears of any one being put to sleep by that opium while Richardson is around.

ECCENTRIC.—The steamer Vancouver, broke an eccentric-wheel on Saturday, just previous to her departure for this place, which detained her, so that she did not arrive until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, six hours behind time. She returned to Vancouver yesterday.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At an election of officers on Saturday, held at the armory of Company "A" Capt. Powell, the following were chosen to fill vacancies: C. H. Hill, 2d Lieutenant; John Wolf, Orderly; Hall Williams, 2d Sergeant; John Dunbar, 3d Sergeant; A. J. Dufur, Jr., 2d Corporal.

Protection No. 1.—Meeting this (Monday) evening at 7½ o'clock.

How to Pay the Rent

BY T S ARTHUR

'I don't see how I am to get through this year and pay my rent, and support my wife and children,' said a young man to a friend as they were walking home together at nightfall. 'It looks darker and dark every day. My receipts are not half what they used to be, and my expenses are a great deal higher. Mary is a capital manager, and gets all that anybody can steer the ship [illegible] she will. Such contriving and cutting over of old things to make new one! I think that little Fan beats every thing I ever saw. But the rent is what figures me. This house just suits us, and I would not move till I elect unless I was turned out,' and the young man tossed a cigar out into the street, heaving a sigh and quickening his pace, as troubled people are wont to do.

'There goes a part of your rent,' said his friend, pointing to the cigar just thrown away.

"A pretty small part, you would say I guess, if you had fifty dollars to make up every quarter, when you could not see where five of it were to come from."

'I can put you in the way of paying one quarter with perfect ease.'

"Be so kind as to do it, then—the quicker the better."

'Just step in here and let me draw up a pledge for you, in which you promise to leave off cigars, and then when you are tempted to buy one slip the paper out of your vest pocket and read it over. That would save you in the course of the year over fifty dollars."

'But then a cigar is such a comfort to a fellow, when he is perplexed and worried to death with his affairs. I feel wretchedly without one after dinner.'

'How will you manage when you are fifty, if you are such a slave to a bad habit at thirty? Be assured Tom, it will bring with it seven others more mighty than the first, and you will be bound hand and foot. Come Tom, shake yourself, and throw off this tyrant. Are you going to let your wife bear all the sacrifice and self denial, while you selfishly stick to all your own luxuries? You are more of a man than that I know. I'll draw up the pledge for you and bring it over to-night—what do you say?'

'I'll think about it, and perhaps I will try for a week," said Tom, who was beginning to be half convinced.

"That will never answer. You must commit yourself to the fight if you are going to break up a bad habit of several years standing. You must go into it body and soul, determined to win, or you will be weaker than ever. Come, it is fully worth the effort, a chance to make fifty dollars should not be thrown away these times."

Some panoramic pictures passed slowly before Tom's mind. He saw his wife and children in a narrow, uncomfortable home brought there because he could not give up his selfish indulgencies; he thought of the pleasant, elegant home from which he had brought his Mary, when she first placed her hand in his and promised to walk through life by his side. He saw her slowly wearing herself out to provide for the little ones, while he put no shoulder to the wheel, and the vision roused his really generous nature, which too much ease had covered up with rubbish.

'I'll do it, Wilson," he said with energy. "I'll cut off that and all the other superfluities, and see if I cannot help Mary in the retrenching business."

His friend warmly seconded the resolution, for he knew Tom well enough to understand that the chief thing he needed was to be fully aroused.

The good resolutions were well carried out, and the end of the year found the household still in the pleasant old home, out of debt and never more happy and comfortable in their lives.

Cut off the superfluities this year, and see if they do not go a long way toward paying the rent. You will be all the happier for it. This is one of the surest first fruits of self denial.

SOMETHING ABOUT A DESPERADO.—Among those recently hung at the Bannock mines by the Vigilance Committee, was a man named Boon Helm, who, perhaps, deserved hanging as much as any man ever did. A gentleman who knew him well furnishes the following account of his crimes:

I first saw him in Salt Lake City, in the spring of 1858, where he made his appearance in company with a mountaineer, named Powell, who had been trading for a number of years with the Flat-Head Indians. He was much emaciated, and presented the appearance of a man who had suffered extreme hardship. He told the following story: Early in the fall he had left the Dalles, Oregon, in company with seven companions who proposed to make their way to Salt Lake City. The party were made up of gamblers and they had all the 'tools' usually used by sporting men, and a race horse with which they proposed to beat anything that could be produced in Mormondom. About three weeks after they had started from the Dalles the party were attacked by Indians, and during the fight which followed two of them were killed. For four days they had occasional skirmishing with the savages, who seemed determined to oppose any advance into their territory. In hopes of escaping from these attacks, they left the water course along which they had been traveling, and made a bold push for the mountains. For several days they kept on their course, without knowing which way they were traveling, and trusting to fortune to bring them safe into the settlements. A snow storm now set in which continued for some time, and effectually put an end to all travel. Finding it impossible to pursue their journey, they erected a hut in a little valley, surrounded by high mountains, and made themselves as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. They remained in this camp until their supply of provisions are entirely exhausted, after which they killed and ate their horses and mules. After killing the last animal, they determined to make a bold push to reach the settlements, each taking a pair of blankets and as much mule meat as he could carry. The five men started over the mountains in a southerly direction. On the third day one of the party became snow blind, and was left behind to perish. Two days after in crossing a river on the ice, two more were drowned, leaving Helm and one companion to pursue their journey. After eight days traveling their supply of mule meat gave out and they were compelled to subsist on the prickly pear plant which they found of stunted growth in the valleys through which they passed. On the twenty first day after they had left their camp in the mountains, Helm's companion, a man named Clayton, became snow blind, and being unable to defend himself, was shot by Helm, who made a hearty meal of the corpse, and horrible as it may appear, carried a portion off with him for food. A few days after the last remnant of his companion had been devoured Helm arrived at an Indian's hut and was treated to a dish of roots, and afterwards conducted by the Indian to the camp of the mountaineer above mentioned. This man brought Helm to Salt Lake City. Once in the camp of the army of occupation under General Johnson, Helm's account of his sufferings [illegible] relief, in [illegible] for two or three months. At the expiration of that time he joined a band of [illegible] by two men named Johnson and Harris, for the purpose of stealing animals from the Mormons and the United States Army. This band was very successful [illegible] running into California [illegible] horses and mules. While engaged in this business Helm killed [illegible] United States [illegible] [illegible] a storekeeper [illegible] and next appeared at the Salmon River mines where one Sunday [illegible] he killed [illegible] Caribou [illegible] which is on [illegible] the Bannock mines [illegible] set of scoundrels who spread terror among the peaceful and law-abiding citizens, who finally in sheer self-defence rose en masse and seized all the members of the band they could lay their hands upon, and hanged them.

THE NEW COMMANDER.—The shadowing forth of General Grant's policy in his first movements and General Orders gives indication of not only a vigorous but a sensible campaign. It can hardly be doubted or denied that in many instances the want of success by the Federal forces may be traced to the permanent ambition of not a few of our Generals, indulged even at the risk of jeopardizing the cause of the Union, and to their rivalry and jealous antagonism exhibited too often in neglect or absolute refusal to aid each other and even to support and secure the success of their commander's designs. This has been noticed in more than one Department, but has particularly prevailed among the Division and Corps Commanders in the Army of the Potomac. It was so under McClellan. It was particularly so under Burnside and Pope. It was so under Hooker. It has been so under Meade. It is not likely to be so long under Grant. The expressions used, the actions performed, the refusals to assist each other at trying times, the criminations, recriminations and votes in councils of war, against attacking or pursuing the enemy, are all patent, proved in Courts Martial, and before Boards of Inquiry as well as reported through the Press. Whatever faults may have been committed by the Secretary of War, or the General-in-Chief Halleck, these alluded to have pretty effectually prevented the Army of the Potomac from winning victories or even holding steadily its position as an Army of Occupation. General Grant knows all this. He feels the responsibility put upon him, is aware of the hopes his appointment inspire, and evidently does not mean to fail of success through the factious opposition, jealousy, or indifference of subordinates. This is evident from the fact that he is ridding the Army of the Potomac of all those Generals who have shown themselves indifferent or opposed to their Commander's success. The telegraph informs us that one is ordered to General Curtis, another to General Rosecrans, another to General Sherman: Generals who have been for vigorous action, who believed in crowding the rebels and, attempting, at least to take Richmond, have been ordered to join General Meade. General Wadsworth, who voted against the majority for a forward movement, is one of them. The signs indicate vigorous war, with a fine army led by able Generals, who believe in going at the enemy instead of rotting in camp and rattling their spurs at reviews, instead of their swords at the heads of their foes. Quite enough of this has been done in front of Washington, but unless signs deceive, its day is over. Henceforth, one mind, not councils of jarring intellects and opposing views, is to direct the war. That mind has heretofore never failed of success, and we believe in its future triumph.—S F Call

A REGIMENT OF LOYAL ALABAMIANS IN OUR SERVICE.—It is not generally known, perhaps, that we have a cavalry regiment composed wholly of loyal Alabamians. The regiment was raised in Corinth, Mississippi, and is made up of twelve hundred men, having for duty, at present, about nine hundred out of the twelve. The manner of recruiting was singular and venturesome, and is thus described by a correspondent of the New York Post:

"Men, acquainted with the country, were sent from the camp to the Union counties in Alabama, traveling at night and through the woods to avoid observation, in that way penetrating a distance of from one hundred and fifty to two hundred miles. They would then hide themselves in the caves in the mountains, and by stratagem manage to communicate with the Union men. After having got together forty or fifty men, willing to run the risk of attempting to gain the Federal lines, they would start cautiously, travel by night, and through the woods, strenuously avoiding the public roads till out of reach of danger. Under every trial this mode succeeded admirably, Corinth being safely reached in each instance. This was carried on so successfully for some time that Governor Shorter of Alabama, offered ten thousand dollars reward for the body of any Federal recruiting officer taken in the State."

One officer traveled upward of two hundred miles, and returned with one hundred and ten recruits, besides twelve prisoners and a valuable rebel mail. Since the organization of the regiment it has been in constant and active service. It has captured over nine hundred prisoners. It has lost in one action killed and wounded upward of one hundred men. It has destroyed a vast deal of property belonging to the enemy, in various raids. The regiment is commanded by Col Geo E Spencer, who has asked leave to raise a brigade, believing that he can get three or four regiments in a short time.

INKS.—The Greeks and Romans greatly surpassed us in the variety and hue of their inks—black, red, purple, blue, green, gold and silver being all found in the ancient manuscripts and works. The black, which in most of the old writings has become tawny or deep red, or sometimes vermilion—not faint and yellow as with us—has occasionally even in those of a great age retained its pristine gloss and darkness. But it is supposed that in that case it has contained either powdered burned ivory or burned wood mixed with gum, which has formed a pigment thicker, no doubt, and less fluent than our ink, but much more durable. The lighter kind of black, again, is believed to have been the black liquor taken from the cuttle fish.
